LOG

175 2437, M30

A tip from Spunky Cold Medina had SPL Roundhouse order the Farragut to the barren planet M30 to prevent the RPGU forces from gathering some unknown materials from an ancient ruin. Arriving in system, the Fonzarelli, piloted by Hilda, landed the jitney and a skimmer at the site. Hilda took the Fonzarelli back to the Farragut in orbit. Hilda, Ramses and Scruffy manned the ship while Jenkins, Victor, Biff, Wally, Van Damm and Gorgeous made up the landing party.

They landing party spotted 2 large black buildings and one small metallic building on the plain, with 2 patches of space mushrooms and an ominous purple egg between them. There was a mountainous cliff overlooking the buildings. A squad of Squidward infantry were deployed in the mushrooms, and a Squidward artillery squad with a rail cannon and anti-aircraft missile launcher were stationed on the mountain top.

Van Damm and Gorgeous remained in the jitney, hiding behind a low ridge. Jenkins, Buff, Victor and Wally took the skimmer and flew around the back side of the mountain and dashed in amongst the artillery squids. Jenkins leads the way and goes sick house on artillery guards. The team wipes out the rest of the artillery squids in a brisk fight. What they thought was a small metallic building turned out to be a patrol flyer which took off, joined by a second flyer which was hiding in a cave in the mountain. The flyers began to set up an attack on the landing party, but Wally used the Rail Cannon to shoot both of them down in short order. The wreck proved that the crew of the flyers were Mavorians, with some Squidward guards.

Victor plants a remote-detonated explosive charge on the Rail Cannon and the team mounts the skimmer to fly back to the jitney. The Squidward infantry in the mushroom patch fire on the skimmer as it passes and one manages to clang Wally in the head, but he manages to shake it off with his can-do attitude.

When the whole landing party was back in the jitney and the skimmer was put away, they rode into the heart of the site. Biff cleared away the infantry squids by using the laser machine gun. The party dismounted and approached the northern building. When it was discovered by scanner, Victor opened the phantom door into the building after Wally failed to.

Inside the building were a Mavorian Overlord and a squad of Mavorian PSI-priests, guards and techs, all gathered around an ancient device [known as a Singularity Generator among antiquarians]. A hard pressed battle began with the landing party taking several wounds. The Overlord managed to repeatedly fail in his mind-attacks against the team. Van Damm, finally, used a disposable rocket launcher against the Singularity Generator causing it to explode, wrecking the building and killing all the Mavorians except the Overlord. Wally was luckily blown out of the building as he used a Mavorian corpse as a shield and Victor's flying belt was activated by the electronic feedback of the generator flying him back out the door. Jenkins leaped onto the Overlord and grabbed him tightly, and the explosive energy wave of the generator caused a power surge in the Force Orb that the Overlord held, saving both the Overlord and Jenkins. The remaining members were outside the building and were protected by the building itself, which was designed to contain such an explosion. The Overlord again failed in his mind attack against Jenkins who then killed the alien using his ultra stiletto.

Just as Gorgeous patched together the wounded, the expected RPGU strike team arrived. A score of Apeling and a dozen Grundorian drop troopers landed by landing-belts scattered across the site. Two of the Grundorians landed on the south building and set up a rail machine gun. Also, a plasma-tank and a heavy APC, both manned by Tauceriaks, drove onto the site from the south-west.

Taking aggressive action, Wally used his flying belt to fly back to the mountain top and fire the rail cannon [prudently, Victor had not yet detonated the demo charge he had planted on it] and damaged the tank and sent the APC into two failure cascades. Equally aggressive, Jenkins flew to the roof of the south building and used his psi-powers to confuse the Grundorians who were manning the rail machine gun into firing on the Apelings. Biff goes sick house and wounds many of the western squad of Apelings. An anti-tank missile from the jitney finishes off the plasma tank.

The Grundorian rail machine gun absolutely slaughters the eastern band of apelings. The Grundorian infantry breaks for cover and launches 3 disposable rockets at the jitney, but they all miss. The Grundorians manning the mg turn on Jenkins and inflict a mortal wound on him after he stabbed one of them. Biff leaps out of the jitney and gets shot by an Apeling, but sildiers on. One of the remaining western Apelings fires a disposable rocket at the jitney and does damage it. The Tauceriaks decide that the APC has had it, so they leap out and begin to advance toward the buildings on foot. Van Damm attempts to run down some wounded Apelings with the jitney, but only hits one. Wally turns the Rail Cannon on the Tauceriaks and kills 2 of them. Victor guns down a bunch of Grundorian infantry among the mushrooms by using the machine gun on the jitney.

Realizing that Jenkins is in danger of imminent death from his wound, Biff shoots the remaining Grundorian machine-gunner, Van Damm wheels the jitney around and drives it to the base of the building and Gorgeous, hopped up on Blitz, flies to the roof and stabilizes the captain's wound.

Victor and Wally pick off most of the rest of the Grundorians and Tauceriaks, but three Tauceriaks and one Grundorian manage to get to the far side of a concealing hill and call for extraction. However, as the extraction boat approaches, Wally blasts it with the Rail Cannon and shoots it down.

After the landing party regroups, they enter the southern building and discover a psychic giant Nautiloid, but they managed to kill it without any ill effects to themselves. Inside a sealed hatch, they recover a plasma rifle, force orb, 2 ultra tact missiles, 2 anti-matter grenades and the mysterious Helm of Saphesteron. They decide to keep these items and not report them. The Captain orders bio samples taken from the Nautiloid and Overlord and they also take the Purple Egg back with them. Jenkins decides that they will not do a planetary survey, since the RPGU might have a serious war ship nearby.
